

My Blog:

<https://webpages.charlotte.edu/hjayakod/ITIS-3300-Agile-Team-2/authors/JoshK/blog-7.html>

Our Website:

<https://webpages.charlotte.edu/hjayakod/ITIS-3300-Agile-Team-2/authors.html>

Project Definition: Project Communications Management

Feature Definition: Keys to Good Communications

User Story Statement: Helping project managers learn how to communicate efficiently and effectively with their teams on all different types of personalities.

Acceptance Criteria for Blog Entries

Each member of the group agrees to meet the following criteria when writing their blog entries:

- ☐ Each blog must be identified with an author.
- ☐ Each blog must have a unique title from other blogs on the site.
- ☐ Each blog must clearly identify the topic they are writing about.
- ☐ Each blog must be dated.
- ☐ Blogs need to be checked for spelling and grammar.
- ☐ References used for research or in the blog must be listed in a reference list after the content of the blog.
- ☐ Any links, images, or other material that is used in the blog entry must be properly cited where appropriate and styled with CSS as wanted by the author.
- ☐ Each blog entry needs to be checked against a plagiarism detection site and screenshot taken of its passing. The Turnitin checker is the standard site used.

In this blog post we are going to talk about some keys to having good communication. Project managers spend a lot of their time communicating with their teams and people and having to find their motivations and understand the people they are working with. "Project managers say they spend as much as 90 percent of their time communicating"- (Schwalbe, 428). All of this communication you need to be able to deal with people properly. There are several different approaches here. These approaches include individual communication vs group communication and much more. This is a vital part of being a project manager.

The first part of this is focusing on the text book it brings up a great quote which is "by in one month" - (Schwalbe, 428). This is faster you can not just add on people to your team to be able to communicate to your team about it what they need in order to get the job done at its going to take the same amount of time as the person will need time to learn what they are with these people that would come on you would be best to communicate with them as that are introverted as that or extroverted or if they are introverted s can conflict with others like for example introverted ay communicate and can lead to communication fire a very detailed instructions on what they need. al idea to get

Words	1029
Characters	5729
Characters excluding spaces	4704

☐ Display word count while typing

Cancel

OK

Next part we are going to discuss is providing several forms of communication. From the text it says "the receiver of information rarely interprets it exactly as the sender intended" - Schwalbe (429). You want the receiver who is receiving the information to do the work correctly and have the correct information exactly. So it is very important to have different forms of communication that are detailed for their understanding. This is such as having it written, in videos, visuals or other ways. This is important because it decreases the chances by a lot of having the details of what is needed to be done by a lot. It is allowing for them to have several sources to refer to and to be able to understand it. This will also cater to a lot of different personalities that people have

Word count

×

Pages	2
Words	1029
Characters	5729
Characters excluding spaces	4704

☐ Display word count while typing

Cancel

OK

Result

Checked

100%

Plagiarism

0%

Unique

100%

Sentence Wise Result

Again Use Plagiarism Checker

Unique

In this blog post we are going to talk about some keys to having good communication.

Unique

Next part we are going to discuss is providing several forms of communication.

Unique

The team you are working with will generally decide what they prefer.

Unique

The next section of discussion is formal and informal methods of communication.

Unique

this is such as having it written, in videos, visuals or other ways.

Unique

this should all help communication go a lot smoother.

Unique

You want the receiver who is receiving the information to do the work correctly and have the correct.

Unique

The first part of this is focusing on the communication needs of your teams.

Unique

A quote I found in the textbook really explains this well which is "You cannot over communicate

Unique

So it is very important to have different forms of communication that are detailed for their under.

Unique

You need to figure out if they are introverted or extroverted or if they are intuitive.

Unique

All of this communication you need to be well versed and know how to communicate and deal with people.

Unique

Knowing when to use formal and informal methods is very important and depends on the team members ...

